

theGro:Club

An exclusive club for in-house Learning and Development and People Professionals

Context and Benefits

In our experience, organisations often underestimate the value that a high performing in-house Learning and Development operation can add to the business. Learning should be at the core of any business, driving growth, innovation and constant change – ensuring that organisations are continually improving and focused on maximising performance.

An exclusive club for in-house 'people' and learning and development professionals which provides opportunities to 'Gro' your impact, your people offering, your knowledge and build a powerful network.

theGro:Club provides a platform to create a strong community where ideas, concerns and challenges can be shared and clear mutual benefits created.
